

Lausanne Movement and WEA Integrity and Anti-Corruption Network Review of the Last Ten Years, and the Outlook for the Next Few Years

Manfred Kohl, October 2020

1. The Lausanne Global Analysis published several articles written by member of the executive team on:
 - “De we care about Corruption? – How Integrity can Tame the Beast of Bribes and Extortion”
 - “A Summons to a Global Integrity Movement”
 - “Choosing to be Salt & Light”The Vista Journal of the Redcliffe College, UK, published an article:
 - “No Discrepancy between Talk and Walk: Integrity and Anti-Corruption are Foundation for Character”Several articles made a direct reference to The Cape Town Commitment, section IIE Calling the Church of Christ back to humility, integrity and simplicity
2. Our executive team organized a conference on Integrity and Anti- Corruption in the Philippines (2013), in Hong Kong (2014), in Korea (2018) and in the Philippines (2019). Some of the conferences were attended by several hundred individuals.
3. Members of the executive team organized and or participated in specific integrity workshops in Switzerland, Ukraine, India, Philippines, Honduras, Indonesia, and South Africa.
4. Members of our network reached out to cooperate with several similar organizations like Faith and Public Integrity Network, The MICAH Challenge International, Transparency International, Project Nehemiah.
5. Leadership of our network is presently re-writing our Vision, Mission, Strategies and Imprint documents. It will be discussed at our the next Zoom meeting of the executive team in October 2020 and will be finalized in our next face to face team meeting in Sophia Bulgaria, in May 2021.
6. The executive team has now approved special committees: one for financial issues including fundraising, one for communication, information and publication and one for program activities including future public conferences and workshops.
7. Every effort is being made to enlarge in the future the executive team with younger members including women. Already several new members have been added in 2020. There is a direct contact with a Lausanne Young Leaders (YLGen) to nominate additional members of the executive team.
